Part I What are E-Metrics? / 1

Overview / 1

Note / 3

1 Defining E-Metrics / 4

Working in the Wired World / 4

Pre-Internet Business / 6

The Birth of the Internet and the Rush to E-Commerce / 8

Elements of E-Metrics / 10

The Application of E-Metrics in E-Commerce / 12

2 Using E-Metrics in Libraries / 19

Libraries in the Print-Only Era / 19

Metrics in Libraries Before the Computer Age / 20

The Rise of E-Publishing and the Birth of the Internet / 22
Library Performance Measurements in the Digital Era / 24

3 Understanding Vendor-Supplied E-Metrics / 28
Examining Samples of Vendor-Supplied E-Metrics / 31
The Benefits of Vendor-Supplied E-Metrics / 38
Are E-Metrics Data and Methods Really
Standardized? / 39
Why Should You Build Local E-Metrics? / 42
Summary and Conclusions / 51
Notes / 52

Part II Why Do Libraries Need E-Metrics? / 53

Overview / 53

4 Using E-Metrics for Public Relations / 55
New Challenges for Libraries in the Digital Revolution / 55
Public Relations Q & A with E-Metrics / 57
Gate Counts vs. Net Counts / 57
Where Are Our Users? / 61
Why Are Library Resources Used? / 63
How Well Are We Serving the Unseen and Who
Are They Anyway? / 66
Where is My Title? / 71

5 Using E-Metrics for Collection Management / 72
The Vagaries and Constraints of Delivery and Access / 72
Collection Development Q & A with E-Metrics / 73
Why is This One Available and the Other One Not? / 73
Subscription Bundling / 74
Licensing and Access Restrictions / 77
Can We Collect in Specialized Subject Areas? / 80
Title Value from the User's Perspective / 81
Can We Coordinate Collections with Other Libraries? / 83
Coordinated Collection Development / 84
Conclusion / 87

6	Using E-Metrics for Library Administration / 88
	Administrative Q & A with E-Metrics / 89
	How Much Do Electronic Collections Cost? / 89
	The "Big Deal" Revisited / 90
	How Many Staff Do We Need? / 93
	Electronic Resources Management / 93
	The Illusion of Seamless Access / 97
	The Unseen Technology of ERM / 98
	The Perils of Market Consolidation / 101
	ERM Solutions? / 102
	How Much Technology Do We Need? / 104
	The Total Cost of Ownership and the Price of Staying Relevant / 105
	Measuring the Value of Library Information Technologies / 109
	Connecting the Price of Access, Presentation, and ERM / 112
	Summary and Conclusions / 114
	Notes / 114

Part III How Do Libraries Build Local E-Metrics? / 115

	Overview / 115
	Notes / 117
7	E-Metrics and E-Resources: Designing Solutions to Capture Usage Statistics on E-Journals, Databases, E-Books, and Digital Documents / 118
	Analyze Basic Web Metrics in Libraries—Local Solution Level 1 / 119
	Library Web Site Analysis: General Statistics / 120
	Library Web Site Analysis: Most Accessed Pages / 122
	Evaluate Vendor-Supplied Statistics / 124
	Data Collection / 125
	Data Collation / 126
	Data Analysis / 127
	Explore Local E-Metrics Initiatives / 128
	Quick Review of Some Local E-Metrics Solutions / 128

Intermediate Local E-Metrics—Local Solution Level 2 /	130
Click-Through Script /	130
What Identifiers Do We Need for Local E-Metrics? /	132
Transaction Log Analysis (TLA) /	135
Sample Results /	137
Advanced Local E-Metrics—Local Solution Level 3 /	143
Highly Advanced Local E-Metrics—Local Solution
Level 4 /	145
Mini How-to /	147
Overview of the Local E-Metrics Project /	148
Notes /	153

8 E-Metrics and Infrastructure: Assessing Servers, Workstations, and Other Technical Considerations / 155

Consider Common Issues for Vendor and Local E-Metrics /	156
Statistical Report Storage /	156
External Data Integration Related to Title Usage Studies /	157
ISXN, Impact Factors, Number of Articles /	158
Date of First Access /	158
Example of an E-Metrics Report with Title
External Data /	159
Title Price /	161
Incorporate Technical Issues Specific to Local E-Metrics /	161
Data Sources for Data Collection /	163
Library Web Server /	163
Library's Catalog Server /	164
Proxy Servers /	165
Print Servers /	168
Open-URL Servers /	168
Data Processing Requirements /	169
Using Off-the-Shelf Software /	169
Using Open Source Software /	170
Using Custom Designed Tools: Homegrown or
Outsourced /	170
Necessary Development Units /	171
External Data Related to IP Addresses and User

Demographics / 172

IP: Address Mapping and Subnets / 173

User: Affiliation, Status, Category / 175

Server for Library User Database / 176

Notes / 181

9 E-Metrics and Staffing: Creating the Team and Defining the Project / 182

Set Up the E-Metrics Team within Library Organization / 183

Library Management / 184

Access Services and Reference Departments / 185

Technical Services Department / 185

Electronic Resources Manager / 186

IT Department / 187

Determine Librarians' Skill Set Expansion and Coordination / 188

Public Relations for Reference and Circulation / 188

Cataloging E-Resources / 189

ERM Team / 189

Consider Additional "Systems" Personnel / 190

User Access Management / 191

In-House Programming / 192

Library Systems Administration / 193

Establish E-Metrics Management Policies / 194

Multiple Ways to Count a Title Use / 194

By Visit / 194

By Search and Session / 195

By Unique Visitor / 196

User Authentication / 197

Access Barriers / 198

Privacy Issues / 198

Burden of User Database Management / 199

Report Processing / 199

Report Accessibility Records / 200

Frequency and Format Standardization / 201

Preservation / 201

Title Persistence Over Time / 202

New Information on a Title / 202

Source Change / 202

Title Subscription Cancellation / 203

Notes / 204

10 E-Metrics and the Future: Standards, Restrictions, Implementation, and Emerging Technologies / 205

Review of E-Metric Standards / 206

Open Access Initiatives / 206

Publishing Sector Market Consolidation / 207

Factor in the Technical Considerations / 208

Access Restrictions Through Licensing Agreements / 209

Preservation and Value of E-Metrics Over Time / 210

Applying E-Metrics to E-Resources and E-Services / 211

Impacts of Emerging Technologies like Federated Search Engines and Deep Linking on E-Metrics / 213

Cost of Local E-Metrics Implementation / 214

Conclusion / 216

Notes / 216

Appendices / 217

Appendix 1: Report Comparison between Two Web
Traffic Analysis Software / 219

Appendix 2: Click-Through Script / 221

Appendix 3: Custom Log Parsing Script / 222

Bibliography / 229

Index / 245

About the Authors / 251
